I believe that organisations need to remain loyal to themselves before they make promises to their customers.

COMMUNICATIESTRATEG
& PROJECTMANAGER

Therefore, I am enthusiastic about taking an active role in the internal communication of a dynamic organisation. By involving employees in and connecting them with the change story. By allowing (senior) managers to convey that story, to show exemplary behavior and to have meaningful conversations with their employees. And by coaching and facilitating the communication department or project team. In close cooperation with other communication functions and HR, and preferably as part of an integrated communication strategy and employee journey.
